ABOUT BLUE SCHOOLS

What is a Blue School?

Any learning community that engages students in educational projects that deepen ocean and freshwater understanding, raise awareness about ocean-climate issues, and involve local community initiatives that inspire action.

Who is Blue Schools Canada for?

All schools, from coast to coast to coast, and inland are eligible to join the Blue Schools Canada (BSC). Individual teachers and their classes can join or entire schools.

Why join Blue Schools Canada?

Students, educators, and school leaders become part of a community of practice both here in Canada and globally, with access to live events, intercultural opportunities, latest resources, and a diverse team of ocean experts.

- All students, all ages, free for everyone
- Engaging different subjects
- Empowering students to take action in community
- Cultivating an ocean community

A Blue School promotes an interdisciplinary, inquiry, and project-based approach to teaching and learning about marine, freshwater, and coastal areas in Canada.

Join a growing community of practice in Canada learning about and for the global ocean, one teacher, one class, one school, one community at a time!
